Vorwort

Die kulturelle und künstlerische Vielfalt von Banknoten aus alter Welt fasziniert schon seit Jahrzehnten immer mehr Sammler rund um den Globus. So ist das Sammeln von Weltbanknoten – auch Dank der Kataloge von Albert Pick, die heute weltweite Standard- und Zitierwerke für Händler und Sammler sind – zu einem der beliebtesten Sammelgebiete in der modernen Numismatik geworden, das besonders durch die Verbreitung des Internet zahlreiche junge Sammler begeistert.

Während bei Münzen schon seit langem auch sog. Gedenkausgaben (Gedenprägungen) üblich und von zahlreichen Sammlern bevorzugt gesucht sind, gab es nationale Notenbanken Gedenkbanknoten vermehrt erst in den letzten Jahrzehnten, besonders aber seit der Jahrtausendwende 2000 in Umlauf. Was damit entstand, ist ein völlig neues Sammelgebiet von Weltbanknoten, die bisher fast ausschließlich nur nach Ländern oder Motiven gesammelt wurden, und für das dieser Katalog einen ersten zusammenfassenden Überblick bietet.

Die ersten Gedenkbanknoten überhaupt waren Billets des Tesoro Nacional von Nikaragua aus dem Jahr 1894, die an den 402. Jahrestag der Wiederentdeckung Amerikas durch Christoph Kolumbus erinnerten und die heute wahre Raritäten sind. Vielleicht hatte man schlicht und einfach den 400. Jahrestag verpaßt, und so wollte man wenigstens zwei Jahre später dieses bedeutenden Ereignisses in der Menschheitsgeschichte gedenken.

Auch aus Mexiko sind frühe Gedenkbanknoten bekannt. Hier war es 1910 die Banco Minero, die zwei Nominale ihrer regulären Ausgabe mit zusätzlichen Überdrucken versah, um den 100. Jahrestag der Unabhängigkeit Mexikos zu würdigen.

So vielfältig wie das Leben selbst und die Entwicklung der menschlichen Zivilisation in den verschiedenen Regionen unseres Planeten, so vielfältig sind auch die Anlässe, die zur Ausgabe von Gedenkmünzen und mittlerweile auch von Gedenkbanknoten dienten und dienen. Neben der Würdigung bedeutender Persönlichkeiten aus Politik, Wissenschaft oder Kunst nimmt die Erinnerung an historische Anlässe, wie etwa zu Staatsgründungen, Unabhängigkeitserklärungen oder Revolutionen einen beträchtlichen Anteil an den Gedenkausgaben ein. Daneben sind es aber auch aktuelle Ereignisse, wie Sportveranstaltungen oder Gipfeltreffen, die immer wieder Anlaß zur Ausgabe von Gedenknoten geben. Manche dieser derart zeitnah gewürdigten Ereignisse schrieben gar Weltgeschichte, wie der Fall der Berliner Mauer und die Öffnung des Brandenburger Tors Ende 1989.

So verschieden die Anlässe zur Ausgabe von Gedenkmünzen oder Gedenkbanknoten auch sein können, so haben sie doch alle eines gemeinsam. Kein anderes Objekt wechselt so oft den Besitzer wie Geld und zirkuliert in der gesamten Bevölkerung. Schon seit der Antike, als es noch keine Massenmedien gab, wie wir sie heute kennen, war das Bildnis eines Herrschers auf einer Münze oft der einzige Weg, um ihn bei seinen Untertanen bekannt zu machen. Der Symbol-Charakter des Geldes und dessen Breitenwirkung wurde und wird deshalb auch immer wieder politischen Zwecken untergeordnet – sei es, daß man in der Vergangenheit wertlos gewordene Geldscheine mit politischen Parolen überdruckte und so zu Propagandazwecken mißbrauchte, oder daß neben der Gestaltung von Banknoten, die besonders in totalitären Systemen beredtes Zeugnis der politischen Verhältnisse sein können, auch Gedenkanlässe gewürdigt werden, die leider ebenfalls politischer Propaganda dienen.

Wie bei Gedenkmünzen, so spielt bei der Ausgabe von Gedenkbanknoten natürlich auch der finanzielle Aspekt eine wichtige Rolle. Schon lange wird mit dem direkten Verkauf von Gedenkmünzen an Sammler auch Geld verdient und oftmals sind diese Stücke kaum im Zahlungsverkehr anzutreffen. Auch der Verkauf von Gedenkbanknoten an Sammler nimmt immer größere Ausmaße an, und schon gibt es auch zahlreiche Ausgaben in speziell gestalteten Verpackungen, meist den sog. Foldern, für die Aufpreise verlangt werden. Im Falle von Thailand, das eine Vielzahl von Gedenkbanknoten – meist zur Würdigung des Königs – aufweisen kann, kommen die so erwirtschafteten Gewinne einem königlichen Hilfsfonds zugute, der z. B. die Entwicklung ländlicher Regionen unterstützt, mit dem aber auch den Tsunami-Opfern von 2004 geholfen wurde.

Wenn man sich mit Gedenkbanknoten beschäftigt, bleibt es nicht aus, sich auch mit den Gedenkanlässen zu befassen. Im Katalog werden deshalb nicht nur die einzelnen Banknoten aufgeführt, mit Vorder- und Rückseite abgebildet und beschrieben – es wird oft auch auf die Gedenkanlässe eingegangen, was mit historischen Betrachtungen verbunden ist. Diese Erläuterungen sollen Sammlern und Interessierten einen Zugang zum geschichtlichen Kontext bieten, aus dem heraus es zu Gedenkausgaben kam und kommt.

Die Idee, für das Gebiet der Gedenkbanknoten einen eigenen Katalog zu erstellen und damit erstmals weltweit diese besonderen Ausgaben für Sammler zu erfassen, zu beschreiben und zu bewerten, entstand bereits vor einigen Jahren. Damals war es Josef Gerber, der mich für dieses Vorhaben interessierte und der mir sofort eine Vielzahl von Gedenkbanknoten als Anregung präsentierte. Ohne den Sammeleifer und die umfangreiche Unterstützung durch ihn wäre dieses Buch nie entstanden.

Der Katalog führt rund 430 Gedenkbanknoten aus über 100 Ländern auf und bewertet diese in EURO. Nicht aufgenommen wurden private Ausgaben, wie z. B. die der Chatham Islands.

Autoren und Verlag hoffen, daß sie mit diesem Katalog, der wegen seiner internationalen Thematik zweisprachig verfaßt wurde, zahlreiche Sammler für Banknoten, insbesondere für Gedenkbanknoten, aus aller Welt interessieren können.

Preface

Preface

The cultural and artistic diversity of banknotes from all over the world has fascinated an increasing number of collectors around the globe for decades now. Collecting world banknotes – partly thanks to the catalogues by Albert Pick, which today, are standard works and works of reference for dealers and collectors worldwide, has become one of the most popular collector's fields in modern numismatics and one which has attracted many young collectors, especially as a result of the Internet.

As far as coins are concerned, also so-called commemorative issues (memorial coins) have been common and much sought after by numerous collectors for a long time now, whereas national note-issuing banks only started putting commemorative banknotes into circulation in the past few decades, especially, however, since the Millennium in 2000. This created a completely new collector's field, namely world banknotes, which to date have almost only been collected according to countries or motifs and for which this catalogue provides the first comprehensive overview.

The very first commemorative banknotes were national treasury bills issued by the Tesoro Nacional of Nicaragua in the year 1894, which commemorate the 402nd anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus and which are true rarities today. Perhaps the 400th anniversary had quite simply been missed and people wanted to commemorate the event which had played an important role in the history of humanity, even if it was two years later.

Early commemorative banknotes are also known from Mexico. In this case it was the Banco Minero which added overprints to two denominations of its regular issues in 1910 in order to honour the centenary of Mexican independence.

The richness and variety of life itself and the evolution of human civilisation in the various regions of our planet are equalled by the widely diverse occasions which served and serve the issue of memorial coins and, in the meantime, of commemorative banknotes. Besides honouring important figures from politics, science or art, the commemoration of historical events such as the founding of states, declarations of independence or revolutions also represent a large proportion of the commemorative issues. Besides these, many contemporary happenings such as sporting events or summit meetings repeatedly provide the occasion to issue commemorative banknotes. Some of these recent occasions which have been commemorated in our times have even written world history, such as the fall of the Berlin Wall or the opening of the Brandenburg Gate at the end of 1989.

However diverse the occasions giving rise to the issue of banknotes or coins may be, they all have one thing in common. No other object changes hands so often as money and circulates throughout the entire population. Since antiquity, when no mass media existed as we know it today, the depiction of a ruler on a coin was the only way to make him known to his subjects. The symbolic character of money and its widespread impact often was and still is repeatedly subordinated to political aims – be it that in the past, banknotes which had become worthless were overprinted with political slogans and abused for propaganda purposes or the fact that besides the design of banknotes which, especially in totalitarian regimes, can bear eloquent witness to the political circumstances, occasions are commemorated which unfortunately also serve political propaganda.

As with commemorative coins, the financial aspect naturally also plays an important role in the issue of commemorative banknotes. The direct sale of commemorative coins to collectors has long been profitable and very often these items are rarely encountered in actual payment transactions. Similarly, the sale of commemorative banknotes to collectors is assuming ever-growing dimensions and there are already numerous issues in special packaging, usually so-called folders, for which an extra charge is levied. In the case of Thailand, which can boast a large number of commemorative banknotes – mostly in honour of the king – the profits thus generated go into a royal relief fund which, for example, benefits the development of rural regions but which also helped support the victims of the Tsunami in 2004.

For those who occupy themselves with commemorative banknotes, an interest in the occasions to be commemorated is inevitable. For this reason, the catalogue does not only list the individual banknotes, showing and describing the front and back of them, it also goes into the events to be commemorated, which is often connected with historical observations. These explanations are intended to give collectors and interested persons access to the historical context which gave or gives rise to the commemorative issues.

The idea to produce a separate catalogue for commemorative banknotes and to record these special issues for collectors for the very first time worldwide was born a few years ago. It was Josef Gerber who aroused my interest in this project and who immediately presented me with numerous commemorative banknotes as inspiration. Without his collector's zeal and considerable support this book would never have been written.

The catalogue lists around 430 commemorative banknotes from more than 100 countries, giving the value thereof in Euros. Private issues such as those of the Chatham Islands have not been included.

Both authors and publishers alike hope that with this catalogue, which has been produced in two languages due to the international nature of its contents, they will be able to interest numerous collectors of banknotes, especially commemorative banknotes, from all over the world.

Geschichte / History

Im Ersten Balkankrieg wurde 1912 die Unabhängigkeit Albaniens proklamiert. 1913 wurde das Land international anerkannt und ab 1920 war es Mitglied im Völkerbund. 1921 marschierten jugoslawische Truppen in Albanien ein. Der Völkerbund konnte den Konflikt lösen und am 9.11.1921 bestätigte eine Botschafterkonferenz die Grenzen Albaniens. Zu diesem Zeitpunkt hatte Albanien noch keine eigene Nationalbank.

In the First Balkan War in 1912, the independence of Albania was declared. In 1913, the country was internationally recognized and in 1920, it became a member of the League of Nations. In 1921, Yugoslavian troops invaded Albania. The League of Nations was able to resolve the conflict and on 9th November, 1921, an ambassadorial conference confirmed the borders of Albania. At that time, Albania still did not have its own national bank.

Zum Inhalt / About this book:

Nikaragua war 1894 das erste Land der Welt, das Gedenkbanknoten ausgab. Es sollten aber noch Jahrzehnte vergehen, in denen berühmte Persönlichkeiten oder historische Ereignisse fast ausschließlich auf Gedenkmünzen gewürdigt wurden, bevor mit den modernen Weltbanknoten – besonders seitdem Millennium-2000-Gedenknoten weltweit einen wahren Aufschwung erlebten und immer mehr Liebhaber finden. Das liegt nicht zuletzt auch an den vielfältigen grafischen Gestaltungsmöglichkeiten, die jede Banknote auch zum Kunstwerk machen.

Das vorliegende Buch katalogisiert erstmals alle Banknoten der Welt, die zu einem besonderen Gedenkanlaß ausgegeben wurden, komplett in Farbe, mit ausführlichen Beschreibungen und historischen Erläuterungen in Deutsch und Englisch und bewertet alle Ausgaben und Varianten marktgerecht in Euro.

In 1894, Nicaragua was the first country in the world to issue commemorative banknotes. Decades were to pass in which famous personalities and historical events were almost only commemorated in coins before with modern world banknotes – especially since the millennium 2000 commemorative notes experienced a veritable boom worldwide, attracting an increasing number of collectors. This can also be attributed to the widely diverse design possibilities which make every banknote a work of art.

This book is the first to catalogue all the banknotes in the world which were issued to commemorate a special occasion, in colour and with detailed descriptions and historical explanations in German and English, evaluating the market price of all issues and variants in Euros.
